Most IO readers understand how the passage of the Federal Reserve Act in 1913, which authorized a cabal of private bankers to monopolize our economy through the issuance of faith-based paper money, has been systematically bankrupting the American people. However, while most of us will boycott this product or that company in protest of its negative impact on our way of life, we still use exclusively the medium of exchange most responsible for the devolution of our national economic viability—the Federal Reserve Auditing Unit Dollar (FRAUD). We won't see a restoration of our constitutional republic until we are rid of the Fed's fraud-based fiat currency. The following articles illustrate how you can begin boycotting the Federal Reserve. It should also be noted that, while most aspects of contemporary activism are a lot like swimming upstream dodging rocks and bears, trading in Liberty Currency is a lot of fun.
